EXHIBIT 2

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
FOR THE NORTHERN DISTRICT OF TEXAS
FORT WORTH DIVISION

VONAGE HOLDINGS CORP., Plaintiff, v. SBC INTERNET SERVICES, INC., SPRINT COMMUNICATIONS CO., L.P., CENTRAL TELEPHONE COMPANY OF TEXAS, and BELL ATLANTIC COMMUNICATIONS, INC., d/b/a VERIZON LONG DISTANCE, Defendants, AND NORTEL NETWORKS INC., Plaintiff, v. VONAGE HOLDINGS CORP., Defendant.	)	NO. 4-04-CV-548-Y Consolidated with 4-05-CV-224-Y

VONAGE HOLDING CORP.'S MOTION FOR LEAVE TO SUBMIT SUR-REPLY TO NORTEL'S REPLY TO VONAGE'S OPPOSITION TO MOTION FOR LEAVE

Infringement Plaintiff Vonage Holdings Corp. ("Vonage") respectfully requests that this Court grant it leave to file the Sur-reply attached at Exhibit A in order to respond to inaccurate statements in Nortel's Reply to Vonage's Opposition to Motion for Leave to amend its counterclaims (the "Nortel Reply"). In support, Vonage would show:

1. On July 17, 2007, Nortel filed its motion for leave to amend its response to Vonage's counterclaims, filed March 19, 2007.

2. Vonage opposed Nortel's motion on August 7, 2007, and Nortel replied on August 22, 2007.

3. As explained more fully in the attached Sur-reply, the Nortel Reply inaccurately states facts and ignores relevant facts relating to the adverse and prejudicial effect of adding three new, distinct patents (the "Nortel Patents") into this case, at this stage of its history. In particular, Nortel's suggestions that the current case schedule will not be adversely impacted are just plain wrong because:

(a) Nortel conditioned meeting the first deadline (and subsequent deadlines) of the Court's Schedule, i.e., the date for Plaintiff's claim constructions and infringement contentions, with one important and knowingly unachievable caveat – that Vonage actively respond within the next couple of weeks to recently served discovery requests by Nortel relating to the Nortel Patents, notwithstanding that the Nortel Patents are not currently part of this or any other lawsuit between the parties. In other words, Nortel has purported to burden Vonage with substantial discovery before this Court has had the opportunity to address and rule whether the Nortel Patents will become issues in the case. Vonage has advised Nortel that it objects to, and does not plan to respond to those irrelevant discovery requests. Even if this Court later grants Nortel leave to amend and add the Nortel Patents to this lawsuit, the due date for Vonage to respond to discovery requests would fall well after the September 30 deadline, thereby creating delays to the existing cutoffs. More importantly, Vonage should not be expected to complete invalidity contentions with respect to the Nortel Patents by October 31, 2007;

(b) There is no nexus – and Nortel does not even attempt to illustrate one – between the technologies covered by the patents in suit and the Nortel Patents. Therefore, the new discovery does not overlap and create efficiencies. To the contrary, inclusion of the Nortel Patents in this case at least doubles the scope and extent of discovery. That in turn would require a total restructuring of the schedule;

(c) Twice the number of patents and the resultant significant expansion of discovery, contentions, and experts means that the upcoming September 30, October 31, and November 7 deadlines, and all following deadlines will ultimately be pushed back several months; and

(d) Contrary to Nortel's claim, Vonage never negotiated the current schedule knowing that Nortel might try to claim patent infringement in this lawsuit. If anything, Vonage believed Nortel would raise any such patent claims in a separate action.

4. Finally, Nortel incorrectly asserts that Vonage, through its recent filing of a Declaratory Judgment of Noninfringement and Invalidity of the Nortel Patents in Delaware, is forum shopping. To the contrary, Vonage is more than willing to litigate the Nortel patents in this Court provided Nortel's claims are litigated in a new and separate case.

5. For the reasons stated herein, granting leave to file the attached Sur-reply will assist the Court and advance the interests of this litigation by correcting and completing the Court's record.

WHEREFORE, Vonage respectfully requests leave to file its Sur-reply attached as Exhibit A.

Respectfully submitted,

Dated: September 7, 2007
